DR. J. A. TONNER.

The name of this gentleman is perhaps familiar to most of our readers, as former superintendent of Indian affairs in Arizona, and now Indian agent at the Colorado reservation, on the Colorado river.

Much has been said in the public prints derogatory of his management of the affairs of his reservation, and of him as a man, before our arrival in the Territory, the justice of which we are not prepared to vouch for nor to dispute. The Dr. is here, has called upon us and we have heard his version of the unpleasantness between himself and Captain Byrne, of the Army. The result is, we are convinced more and more that "every question has two sides to it," and a verdict made up from the testimony of one, without hearing the other, is apt to be an erroneous one.

When, on Monday, we heard Dr. Tonner had arrived in town, we confess to a feeling of trepidation, and vague consciousness of a monstrous presence. Whether this terrible Doctor had tusks and claws like the tiger, or beak and talons for tearing human flesh like the eagle, were questions so indefinitely fixed in our mind that the very uncertainty became painful.

While ruminating upon the matter, and trying to devise the best means of avoiding contact with so subtle an influence for evil, we were unexpectedly confronted by and introduced to the Doctor himself, and were agreeably astonished to find in him one of the most agreeable, polite, accomplished and affable gentlemen we ever met. That the Doctor has made some mistake in his Indian management we feel assured, as who has not, who has had to deal with so complicated a matter? But after hearing all he had to say on his side of the question, we are convinced that he means to do right, and is willing to learn by experience and correct such errors as he is convinced he has made, at the same time is firm, and determined to pursue his course where he considers himself in the right. These are our impressions as to Dr. Tonner after a full and free interview.

It is no part of the mission of the MINER to excuse the faults of office-holders, nor to accuse them wrongfully; neither is it a partisan paper, either politically or as between the civil and military authorities. We expect to treat all with fairness, to speak of their blunders as we see and understand them, and give credit where we believe credit to be due. As we see the situation now, we believe both the military and Indian departments are represented by men who desire to do their whole duty. Of course, little jealousies will arise between those representing the two powers, and one is apt to be in the wrong as another. It is not the province of an impartial or independent newspaper to prejudice the minds of its readers for or against either, without apparent cause at least, and we shall not do so by publishing partial statements of either party as against the other.

There are some reasons in favor of a change of policy in the management of the Indians which would place the whole control under one authority for the sake of harmony, and other reasons why the responsibility should remain divided in order that one may serve as a check on the other, so that it becomes a debatable question whether it is not better as it is. It is this conflict of authority that has created a rupture between Dr. Tonner and Capt. Byrne, and now the Doctor is here, Gen. Kautz has sent for the Captain and before they return we hope a proper understanding will be arrived at, so that in future they may work together for the public good.

THE ROAD FROM NEW MEXICO.—As many people in New Mexico and further East are said to be coming towards Prescott this Spring, it may be of interest to such of them as read the MINER to know something of the road from New Fort Wingate, N. M., to Prescott. From Fort Wingate to Zuma Villages the road crosses Zuma Mountains, over a grass and timber country; the first water is at a Zuma farm, 20 miles; next, Zuma Villages 25 miles, Madeline Calderon 25 miles, Upper crossing of the Colorado 27 miles, Cave Springs 9 miles, Mineral Creek 8 miles, Marion Clark's ranch 15 miles, Tanks 32 miles, a creek 8 miles, Canyon Springs 9 miles, Crook Springs 32 miles, Baker's Butte 4 miles, Burnt Cabin 8 miles, next water 15 miles, Spruce Pine Spring 15 miles, next water 9 miles, next 8 miles, Mud Tanks 17 miles, Clear Creek 16 miles, Camp Verde 5 miles, Prescott via Col. Mason's new road 35 miles—making the whole distance from Wingate to Prescott 342 miles.

In St. Louis recently a number of prominent citizens contended in a spelling match. Reavis, the capital removal man, went down on the word "capitolian." Knapp, editor of the Republican, was crushed on "Laocoon," and sat down, amidst shouts of derision; Carl Schurz collapsed fatally from "pianissimo;" Henry T. Blow was vanquished by "tempestuous;" and the Honorable Gratz Brown was floored by "cosmographical;" ex-Congressman Stanard succumbed to "mayorality;" and Capt. Eads, who knows all about digging out the Mississippi, could not spell "peerless."

LIEUT. J. W. SCHMERHAYES of Camp Apache is about to change posts and will hereafter be located at McDowell.

THE HUALPAIS.

The Indians that have left the Colorado reservation are still out in the mountains, but so far as heard from are peaceable. Passengers who came in via Mohave report that five were seen near the Willows a few days ago but acted in a very inoffensive manner, passing along without even paying attention or speaking to anybody. Dan O'Leary, who has had a great deal of experience with this tribe, and who is supposed to have as much influence with them as any other white man, has gone out to talk with them and learn what they propose to do. Gen. Kautz will have a force of soldiers in the vicinity of their haunts, in a few days, and if they do not return peaceably to their reservation when requested, it may become necessary to compel them to do so.

O'Leary is of the opinion that they expect to be allowed to remain about Beale Springs, and when informed that it will not be permitted will yield and return without further trouble. Dr. Tonner informs us that it was not so much the change of their feeding station, from La Paz to the reservation, as it was a general dissatisfaction on their part at not being allowed to remain at Beale Springs, where, we are informed, there is very little tillable land, and no chance to ever render them even partially self-supporting.

The Indian agents are instructed by the department to require all Indians to do something to assist in earning their rations, with a view to render them self-supporting as far as possible; and right here we fear they are committing an error in pressing this self-support upon the Indians more rapidly than they are ready to acquiesce in it. A child has to learn to creep before it can be taught to walk, and in dealing with wild Indians it cannot be expected that they will at once adopt the ways of the white man. Those that have made their homes in the valleys and been accustomed to cultivate the soil in their own crude way, will, of course, the more readily adapt themselves to the use of our implements and learn their value, while it would doubtless prove economy in the long-run to feed the mountain Indians entirely at Government expense until they become somewhat accustomed to being confined to the limits of a reservation, and taught the fallacy of trying to live by murder, theft and robbery. Another mistake, we think, is in not having a resident superintendent in the Territory. As long as there is an Indian department, independent of the military, they require a superintendent with whom the agents can confer and from whom to receive their orders, just as much as the military require a department commander.

Now, if a question arises that an agent is not authorized to decide, or is in doubt what to do, everything must stop until the superintendent at Washington can be heard from, and then, in the very nature of things, his great distance from the scene of the trouble renders him incompetent to advise correctly. In this way, agents are, no doubt, often blamed when the fault lies in the system under which they are operating.

The Hualpais are evidently not ready to accept the full measure of civilization that the department desires to clothe them with.

MILITARY ORDERS.

April 21.—A General Court Martial is constituted to assemble at Camp Verde, A. T., at 10 o'clock, a. m., Monday the 26th instant, or as soon thereafter as practicable, for the trial of such persons as may be properly brought before it.

Detail for the Court:—Captain J. W. Mason, Fifth Cavalry; Captain G. M. Brayton, Eighth Infantry; Captain H. M. Cronkhite, Assistant Surgeon; First-Lieutenant Gordon Winslow, Eighth Infantry; First-Lieutenant John O'Connell, Eighth Infantry; Second-Lieutenant W. H. Carter, Sixth Cavalry; Second-Lieutenant W. C. Roundy, Eighth Infantry; Second-Lieutenant J. McE. Hyde, Eighth Infantry, Judge-Advocate.

Second-Lieutenant Edward Lynch, Eighth Infantry, will relieve Second-Lieutenant P. P. Barnard, Fifth Cavalry, of his present duties as A. A. Q. M. and A. C. S., at Ehrenberg, A. T.

Lieutenant Barnard upon being so relieved, will proceed without delay to join his company at Camp San Carlos, A. T.

April 23.—Paragraph 3, Special Orders No. 29, current series, from these Headquarters, directing Second-Lieutenant Edward Lynch, Eighth Infantry, to relieve Second-Lieutenant P. P. Barnard, Fifth Cavalry, of his duties as A. A. Q. M. and A. C. S., at Ehrenberg, and Lieutenant Barnard upon being so relieved, to proceed to join his company, is rescinded.

Major J. H. Nelson, Paymaster, will proceed to pay the troops stationed at Camp Verde, Fort Whipple, Camps Mojave and La Paz, A. T., and Fort Yuma, California, to include the muster of April 30th, 1875, and thereafter proceed to San Francisco, California, on business connected with his Department.

On the completion of this duty Major Nelson will return to his present station.

SOME of the New Mexican papers know more of the author of the doggerel we copied from the Colorado Chieftain a few weeks ago reflecting on the country and people of New Mexico and Arizona, and reject the poem, not only on account of its exaggerations but the character of the writer. We had supposed, from the remarks of the Chieftain, that he was some gifted but erratic genius whose convivial habits kept him, the greater part of his time, in the guard house; but the Borderer pronounces him a cold-blooded murderer who, if he had his just deserts, would be hung high as Haman. His name is Patrick Canterbury, and wrote his slander on this and our neighboring Territory while in prison awaiting his trial for murder at Fort Union.

JAMES DAGGETT of Mineral Park, whom we located at Hardyville last week in an item with reference to the breaking of his arm, writes that he is now improving rapidly.

LETTER FROM WICKENBURG.

WICKENBURG, A. T., April 24, 1875.

EDITOR MINER:—The ordinary routine of life in this quiet town gives but few items for a newspaper correspondent, but the murder of Heyman Mannasse, on Tuesday the 20th inst., created considerable excitement, and presuming the particulars of the affair would be acceptable, I write these lines: Mannasse had made an agreement with a Mexican freighter, named Jesus Amado, to take some hides to Ehrenberg, and they were to be loaded that day, and when the affray began, a man was taking them from the yard and piling them up in front of the store to be ready for the wagon which was in camp about 100 yards from the store of Mannasse. About 7 o'clock in the morning Amado went to Mannasse's store and a conversation ensued between them concerning some barley Amado wished to buy, and he told Mannasse that the price he then asked was too much, and more than he had offered it to him for the day before, and said he would not buy the barley nor take the hides. Mannasse then called him a liar and other bad names, and Amado struck him in the face and ran, and Mannasse shot at him twice with a pistol as he ran, but did not hit him. Amado sung out that he would be back directly. Mannasse went in through the store, took a double-barreled shotgun, which was loaded, out into the yard and fired it off, came back into the back-room of the store and commenced loading the gun, standing by a table with his back turned towards the front of the store. Just then Amado, who had been to his wagon and got a pistol, came to the store and looked in, saw Mannasse, and standing on the side-walk shot at him through the length of the store—about fifty feet. The ball struck the unfortunate man near the point of the shoulder-blade, passed through his body, going out just above the left nipple.

E. Farley, E. B. Kirkland and Jose Guindani were in the rear part of the establishment and laid the wounded man on the bed. Dr. J. H. Pierson was immediately called and did all that could be done, but Mannasse died about 8 o'clock. Amado left town in the excitement following the shooting, and has not been heard of since. He left his team in charge of the driver who went away the same day. Telegrams were sent in all directions, and Amado perhaps will not escape.

A coroner's inquest held by J. H. Pierson, J. P., gave verdict in accordance with the facts as above stated.

H. A. Bigelow, Public Administrator of this county, arrived in town Wednesday, from Prescott, and with the help of E. B. Kirkland (Mannasse's clerk), and F. M. Larkin, at once commenced taking an inventory of the property, which consists of the usual stock of a country store, and will probably amount to $8,000 or $10,000. Moses Mannasse, a brother of deceased, resident at San Pasqual, San Diego Co., Cal., has replied to telegrams that he would come here at once, and will probably take charge of the settlement of the estate.

There is little else worthy of note in town. The stoppage of the Vulture mill and mining operations, with no immediate prospect of starting again, has given the burg a quietus from which it will not soon recover. Although the Vulture Company claim that work was stopped because it would not pay, we have the curious fact to reflect upon that P. W. Smith has a mill 11 miles below here, is working rock from his claim on the same mine and is making money. He started in the face of obstacles that would have discouraged any one of less energy, got in debt so that those who were weak in faith would not trust him for a dollar, and to-day is in the full tide of success with a 10-stamp mill; is sought after for his trade by men who refused to help him three years ago. His trade in Wickenburg is considerable, though he keeps a store at his mill and buys wholesale elsewhere.

The change of the California and Arizona mail line on this route from San Bernardino to Prescott, to that via Hardyville to Prescott, will have a still further depressing influence on the fortunes of Wickenburg. Now the main establishment of the company is here, for repairs, a depot for extra stock, stages, etc.; and after the change, which will take place May 16th, there will only be a way station here on the semi-weekly line from Prescott to Phoenix.

Prospecting for new mines and working on old ones goes on in this neighborhood a little yet. Geo. Monroe has specimens of very rich silver ore, out of a vein some twenty miles east of town. It assays into the thousands, and he is intending to get out ores for shipment. H. Ramboz has recently discovered a vein of high grade copper ore—no assays made. Others have been and are now prospecting for deposits or veins of the precious minerals, with varied success. The lack of means to develop promising discoveries is the hardest element for the prospector to contend with; so those who believe they have something good in the mineral line can only wait for a moving of the waters, like the sick of olden time; and like them, some will have to be carried into the pool to derive any benefit from the commotion.

Yours, truly, P. A.

WHAT MR. BEECHER THINKS OF HIMSELF.—They tell a tolerably well authenticated story in Brooklyn, by way of showing how Mr. Beecher regards his own conduct in respect to the scandal. Brother Sherman was calling on Beecher one Sunday, and the conversation naturally turned upon the scandal and the trial. Mr. Beecher remarked, finally, that he doubted if it was strictly proper to talk about such things on Sunday. To which Brother Sherman dryly replied that he had read in the Scriptures that when an ox or an ass had fallen into a pit it was right to pull him out even on the Sabbath day. Beecher laughed and said, "Well, I guess you've got me, for if ever there was any bigger ass than I have been, or any deeper pit than I have fallen into, I have yet to hear of them."

Col. J. H. Nelson, Paymaster U. S. A., and Lieut. Thomas, Aid-de-camp, arrived here from Prescott last evening. The troops stationed here will be mustered, and probably paid, to-day.

The three companies of the 5th Cavalry, Col. Mason commanding, will, it is thought, leave this Post during the forepart of next week en route to Santa Fe, N. M.

SAN BERNARDINO TO PRESCOTT.

The trip was a very pleasant one after all, and not in the least what I had expected from the numerous descriptions that had been given to me by many friends who had "been there and knew all about it." There were eight of us altogether, who started for this place. We left San Bernardino by private conveyance, on the 14th, at noon, arriving here on the evening of the 27th, making the trip in just thirteen and one half days. We all started out in most excellent spirits and with the expectation of a pleasant trip, which expectation was fully realized, as little or nothing occurred to mar its harmony. Our first drive was made to Martins, about twelve miles this side of San Bernardino, where we laid over for the night. The next morning we started out bright and early and drove as far as Huntington's station, where we also stopped for the night. After leaving this place we struck the desert, which we never left until we had crossed the Colorado river, and actually placed our feet on Arizona soil. It would not be amiss here to state, that the general impression east and also with many Californians is, that the Desert lies in Arizona, and not in California, but it is in California where the lie is and not here. This impression alone has kept many people from coming into this Territory. I myself labored under such impression, and for the sake of truth and the benefit of those intending to emigrate to this Territory, let me say, that the first spot of verdure, or as one on the trip expressed it "of God's own country" I saw after leaving San Bernardino, was after I had arrived in Arizona. On beholding it, I felt as happy as the discoverer of the celebrated McCracken mine must have felt when he found he had struck the lead. But to continue our trip, the stations of which were made as follows: Fish Pond, Cady's, Soda Lake, Marl Springs, Puente Hills, Hardyville, Union Pass, Frie's Wash, Willows, Hualpai and Prescott. The above stations were made our stopping places for the night, while the intermediate ones we managed to reach in time for dinner. This fact was accomplished with one or two exceptions. To Mr. Fred Williams of your town are we well indebted, not only for his able management regarding the trips, but for many valuable bits of information, as well as a most pleasant companion. At one of our intermediate points we had pretty lively in the shape of a fighting cock, who proclaimed himself "the prettiest man in the Territory and the best runner." This expression gave rise to a story that is too good to be lost. It was told by one of our party, as follows: A long time ago, there was a fellow up in Nevada that put himself up for a runner, and he was a slashing good runner. Well, the boys backed him up pretty heavy for a race, besides betting lively on the outside, anyhow, the cuss chuckled the race and the boys lost. That night they got talking about it, and the more they talked, the more excited they got, until at last they resolved to hang him. The runner soon got wind of this and lit out, but the boys were after him. He had not run far when some fellow yelled out, "there's another race." "Yes," replied the fellow without looking back, "and you bet your life, it aint no chuck this time either." It is needless to say that he escaped. The road to the Colorado river, presented an enviable prospect of sand and rattlesnakes, and not much else outside of the stations. After leaving Union Pass, we of course struck the toll-road, and from there in to your good little town, the ride was more pleasant and easy. As most of your readers are well acquainted with this route, it will scarcely bear any details, suffice it to say that Prescott comes up to all I had expected of it, and from what little information I am able to glean, I deem it safe to say: that Prescott has room for more men of every description and of every trade, and that it opens a field the better of which can not be found.

CHARLEY.

Prescott, April 28th, 1875.

The military enrollment of destitute persons in the grasshopper regions of Minnesota, numbers 9,114, of whom 4,238 are under twelve years of age. Rations for one month, principally of pork and flour, with supplies of army clothing, will be furnished them at once. Reports from Dakota Territory are not all in, but Col. Smith, having charge of the distribution, estimates the number needing aid in Dakota Territory at 6,000. So far as the enrolling officers are informed, but one case of utter destitution exists either in Minnesota or Dakota. They report instances of application for aid from families abundantly able to provide for themselves, and other instances where persons really suffering would neither apply for nor accept aid. Nearly all applicants for help are foreign-born, new comers, who had no means of subsistence other than the products of their labor upon homestead or preemption claims.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

JUST RECEIVED.—The latest Spring and Summer styles of ladies hats, wrappers, linen suits, saques, lace, &c., of all descriptions, at H. ASHER & CO'S. ap164.

MISS RAY invites the ladies of Prescott and vicinity to call and examine the stock of Millinery and Fancy Articles to be opened the first of next week, at her new store, Gurley street, north side plaza, next to Dr. McCandless.

THE "BONANZA" FOR ALL.—Invalids, by nervous debility, desirous of again feeling the vigor of health and vim of system, should take a few bottles of Dr. Hendley's Celebrated I. X. L. Bitters. Before one bottle is taken they will feel the dawn of restoration, of returning health. No case of dyspepsia, indigestion, loss of appetite, rheumatism, kidney or liver disease, has ever resisted its restorative power. Every part of the human system requires and should receive sustenance and support from the stomach, regulated by the liver. If the stomach cannot supply the aliment required, the whole system languishes. Fortify your organs of life with these bitters, and in a few days you will feel your whole system invigorated; for every disease arising from disordered liver, stomach or bowels, it is invaluable; it will revive your shattered system. Dyspepsia and persons of bilious habit should keep it within reach, if they value health and ease. ap23al
